Greetings Thorobred Fans and Supporters,

Utilizing the new Kentucky State University slogan as our guide, "Inspiring Innovation, Growing Leaders, Advancing Kentucky", we expect to have a great year both academically and athletically. We are excited about the start of the 2005 Thorobred Football season because we know that our team personifies all that the new slogan expresses. They have been outstanding both on and off the field. During the 2004 season, the Thorobreds had a 7-4 overall record and placed fourth in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SIAC). We are pleased to have a new athletic director in Ms. Derita Ratcliffe and new football coaches, led by Head Coach Fred Farrier. I know that both Ms. Ratcliffe and Coach Farrier are committed to maintaining our winning tradition.

In addition to performing on the gridiron, our student athletes are expected to excel in the classrooms, again setting the stage for innovations to spring forth and leaders to develop.

They are expected to be "champions" in their chosen field of study. Off the field, members of our Thorobred football team have assumed leadership roles, excelled in the classroom, and participated in community service projects in the city of Frankfort, again adhering to our motto of "growing leaders" and "advancing Kentucky".

We look forward to an exciting and challenging season as we face old rivals and emerging foes. Kentucky State University appreciates the support of the entire university family, alumni and friends and asks you to join us as we push our Thorobred Football team in the direction noted on the Kentucky State University Seal, "Onward and Upward".

I look forward to celebrating victory with you at each Thorobreds football game this season.

The Pride Is Back!

Sincerely,

Mary Evans Sias
President

Kentucky State University History

From its modest beginnings as a small normal school for the training of black teachers for the black schools in Kentucky, Kentucky State University has grown and evolved to become the state's unique, small, liberal studies institution, serving students without regard to their race, age, sex, national origin, or economic status. In addition to instruction, research and public service have produced important, although secondary, emphases at the University.

The University was chartered in May 1886 as the State Normal School for Colored Persons, only the second state-supported institution of higher learning in Kentucky. During the euphoria of Frankfort's 1886 centennial celebration, when vivid recollections of the Civil War remained, the city's 4,000 residents were keenly interested in having the new institution located in Frankfort. Toward the end, the city donated $1,500 - a considerable amount in 1886 dollars - and a site on a scenic bluff overlooking the town. This united display of community enthusiasm and commitment won the day. The new college was located in Frankfort despite competition from several other cities.

Recitation Hall (now Jackson Hall), the college's first building, was erected in 1887. The new school opened on October 11, 1887 with three teachers, 55 students, and John H. Jackson as president.

In 1890 the institution became a land-grant college, and the departments of home economics, agriculture, and mechanics were added to the school's curriculum. The school produced its first graduating class of five students in the spring of that year. A high school was organized in 1893. This expansion continued into the 20th century in both name and program. In 1902, the name was changed, and again in 1926 to Kentucky State Industrial College for Colored Persons. In the early 1930's the high school was discontinued, and in 1938 the school was named the Kentucky State College for Negroes. The term "for Negroes" was dropped in 1952. Kentucky State College became a university in 1972, and in 1973 the first graduate students enrolled in its School of Public Affairs.

Over the past 25 years the University's enrollment and faculty have more than doubled, and 29 new structures or major building expansions have enhanced the Kentucky State University's 511-acre campus, which includes a 203-acre agricultural research farm.

The year 1986 marked the University' centennial anniversary and its evolution over the previous century into a coeducation, liberal arts institution.

Thorobred Football Outlook 2005

This time of the year football coaches all over the country at every level of competition are chomping at the bit in anticipation of the upcoming football preseason training camp. Coach Fred T. Farrier, newly appointed head football coach for Kentucky State University, is no different.

Coach Farrier, who will be entering his first season as a collegiate head coach, replaced last years interim head coach Cornell Burbage. Farrier is taking over a program that has finished the past two seasons 7-4 with a chance to win the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SIAC) each year.

"I have watched Kentucky State University from afar and KSU has all the makings to be a champion on the field and in the classroom," Farrier added. "It's an exciting time for KSU as a whole and I'm proud to have a chance to put my personal touch on an already established entity."

According to Coach Farrier the Thorobreds are in great shape. There is a lot of optimism on and around campus. The players are excited and working harder than they have worked before. All things considered, the Breds are off to a solid start to the 2005 season. After completing 3 weeks of morning workouts and 2 full weeks of spring practice, the Breds finished with an exciting spring game that the players played hard in and enjoyed.

"The theme for this year is "You Make the Choice," said Coach Farrier. "We are asking our players to make the conscious decision to be a champion," Coach Farrier adds. "This includes in the classroom, around campus, in the community and on the field. We are changing a mentality and our kids love it. I feel like we have a great start to the season."

A look at the Thorobred Offense:

Running backs

The running game will return two veterans in Roni Robinson and Cassius Chambers. The coaching staff is expecting Robinson and Chambers along with David Thompson to compete in preseason camp for the starting tailback position. Robinson is coming off of a very productive spring where he made a lot of improvements and put himself in position to compete. At fullback, Nick Moore is the starter after a solid spring. We expect Maurice Hicks and Terrell Sowell to battle it out for the backup spot and push Moore for playing time. Incoming freshman Michael Wright will add depth at this position.

Quarterback

Shawn Johnson returns with the most experience after splitting time last season with Joe McBride. Brandon Adams moves back to quarterback after playing wide receiver last year and will challenge Shawn for the starting spot. Both had a very productive spring and showed signs that they are very capable of running the new offense. Incoming freshman Caleb Midera comes to Frankfort with impressive prep credentials and will stake his claim to become the Thorobred signal caller. This position has depth and we are in good shape.

Offensive line

The Breds' return 2 starters from last year's team, Travis McCullough and Wayne Jones. There will be some gaps to fill with the departure of some seniors. Artavious Williams, Tony Senat and Tavares Dishmon will have a chance to earn starting spots. Incoming freshmen Jonathan Fowlkes, James Jenkins and Phil Leonard should all add depth and compete for playing time once they learn the new offense.

Tight ends

Danny Hawkins, the basketball player, will show his versatility as the starter at tight end. Zach Davis will challenge Hawkins for the starting spot and give the Thorobreds an added dimension of having two very capable tight ends.

Fred T. Farrier

Head Football Coach

Fred Farrier comes to Kentucky State University as the 29th head football coach in Thoroughbred history. Coach Farrier comes to Frankfort from Raleigh, North Carolina where he was the offensive coordinator and associate head coach for the 2004 season.

While at Shaw, the Bears won the CIAA conference championship and Pioneer Bowl, defeating two SIAC teams along the way. The Bears were very successful offensively in the CIAA conference and placed two offensive players on the All-CIAA 1st Team, one player on the 2nd team and two players on the Daktronics All-Southeast Region Team. The Bears were able to win the CIAA championship in football after only two seasons of NCAA football since reviving the program in 2002.

As associate head coach at Shaw University Coach Farrier was responsible for managing all aspects of the team's budget, travel, hotels, meals and transportation. Coach Farrier was also the co-host for the weekly Shaw Bears radio show.

Coach Farrier joined the Tennessee Tech coaching staff shortly before the 2001 season to work with the team's receivers and had a huge impact on the record-setting success of the Golden Eagle passing game for three seasons. He also served as the Golden Eagle recruiting coordinator, coordinating their nation-wide effort to attract top talent to Cookeville. In three seasons at Tech, Farrier helped the Golden Eagle offense establish 36 offensive school records with several standout receivers. During his time in Cookeville the Golden Eagle receivers recorded eleven 100-yard plus receiving games.

His coaching career began at Michigan State, where he served two seasons as a graduate assistant coach with the Spartans. He coached with the MSU wide receivers in 1998 and 1999 under head coach Nick Saban, including working with NFL standout receivers Plaxico Burress and Gari Scott.

Coach Farrier was the wide receivers coach and recruiting coordinator at Saginaw Valley State University in 2000. That season he was privileged to coach the GLIAC conference player of the year and All-America selection in Brian Dolph. In 2000, the Cardinals won the GLIAC conference title and a berth to the NCAA Division II playoffs.

Farrier's knowledge of the game is also well documented, including two articles published in Coach and Athletic Director magazines. "Blocking With A Purpose" was published in September, 2002 and "Winning At The Line Of Scrimmage: 5 Steps To Beating Press Coverage" was published in April, 2003. Farrier had a third article published in the Black Coaches Association Journal in January of 2004, titled, Professional Development: 10 Steps to Develop Better Coaches. In April of 2005, Coach Farrier was published in The Extra Point magazine with an article titled Establish Your Run Game.

Coach Farrier was a participant and graduate of the 2005 NCAA Coach's Academy's Advanced Coaching Program that identifies outstanding minority coaches in football with the potential to become Division I-A head coaches. Coach Farrier also received his master's degree from Tennessee Tech in May of 2005 in Instructional Leadership.

During his collegiate playing career, Farrier earned two letters as a wide receiver at the College of the Holy Cross. The Crusaders posted an 11-0 mark in 1991, while garnering the East Coast Athletic Conference Team of the Year Award and sporting a 20-game winning streak from 1990 through 1991. Farrier also played basketball and received his bachelor's degree in economics and accounting in 1994.

During his prep career at Cleveland Heights (Ohio) High School, Fred was a two-time all-conference selection in both football and basketball. Coach Farrier and his wife, Danita, reside in Frankfort with their son, Fred II.

Wide Receivers

The Thoroughbreds will be very young at wide receiver. Derek Talbert and return Jeremy Douglas will have the most experience, Jeremy Douglas. We will expect big things from Juwan Jones and Jerome Bryant. Someone will have to step up for us at this position.

A look at the Thoroughbred Defense:

Linebackers

The Breds return two starters from last year's team in middle linebacker Kelvin Harvey and outside linebacker Tim Vaughn. Randy Driver will most likely join as the third starter after making the switch from safety. Look for Ray Huff and Joe White to push for playing time and add depth at the position.

Defensive line

We took a big hit from graduation but will be held steady by defensive ends Jason Sneed, Abraham Jackson and Innoent Verneuil. Inside we will be led by junior Herbert Maze and Rob Beal should challenge for the other inside spot. Dwight Cummings and Morris Jordan should provide depth.

Secondary

This is the most experienced group on the team. We will be led by returning senior starters at corner in Marcus Wright, a preseason awards candidate, and Brandon Fairley. Courtney Reed, Josh Enoch and Slyving Bordeaux will add depth. Robert Brown will be the starter at strong safety after making the switch from linebacker. Leonard Banks emerged from spring as the starter at free safety. Jermaine Washington, Terrell Henderson and Kerry Guy will also compete for a starting spot at safety in preseason camp.

A look at the Thoroughbred Special Teams: Special Teams

The kicking game is one of the more experienced areas for the Thoroughbreds and that experience will be counted on to lead to improved special teams play. The Thoroughbreds finished in the top half of the conference in every phase of the kicking game. Returning kicker Stephen Harris handled all of the kicking duties last season. As a freshman, Harris averaged 37.0 yards a punt and also connected on 29 of his 33 extra point attempts. Marcus Wright will once again handle the kick and punt return duties after leading the Thoroughbreds and ranking fourth in the SIAC in punt returns with a 15.1 yards per return average. As a junior he also finished third in kick returns with a 29.4 yards per return average. Also look for Jerome Bryant and Derek Talbert to help with the kick and punt return responsibilities.

After a great college career, Wilhite signed a free agent contract with the Chicago Bears in 1993. He was released on the last cut day and was signed with the Canadian Football Leagues' (CFL) Sacramento Goldminers. During a 5 1/2 year span, Wilhite played for 3 different CFL teams. His best year was in 1996 with the Ottawa Rough Riders. That year he made 43 tackles and three interceptions, returning them back for 119 yards. He was second CFL in punt returns with 718 yards on 70 punts and led the CFL with 1,167 yards in 57 kickoff returns. His 2,245 all-purpose yardages ranked him third in the CFL. That year he also finished 3rd in MVP voting for the CFL behind Doug Flutie.

Wilhite has five years of coaching experience on the collegiate level. He started at New Mexico State University as Volunteer Assistant Defensive Back Coach for two seasons. He then back to his alma mater Dodge City Community College as defensive Back Coach for one season. After that, he spent three seasons at Emporia State University.

Dr. Harold R. Benson is a graduate of The Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio with a doctorate in Adult and Continuing Education. He was appointed as Kentucky State University's Land Grant Program director in 1985. While he currently serves in this capacity, he also provides leadership to KSU by serving as a professor for the Master of Public Administration program.

Dr. Benson has served in various capacities and been affiliated with many organizations since his appointment as KSU's Land Grant Program director. Because of his vision, Kentucky State University implemented an aggressive research and extension program which serves the needs of citizens and producers in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, region, Nation and International Community. In 1988, the Council on Post-Secondary Education granted approval for KSU to offer a Master of Science Degree in Aquaculture/Aquatic Sciences. Aquaculture is now known as KSU's Program of Distinction and Dr. Benson as the Father of Aquaculture in the state of Kentucky.

Dr. Benson's most recent accolade was being awarded the 1890 Administrator Award for 27 years of sustained and continuous leadership to the Kentucky State University Land Grant Program. He is the third administrator at KSU and the longest tenured extension administrator in the nation.

Above all of these things, Dr. Benson's greatest sources of pride are in being the husband of Geneva, the father of Yolanda Cherie, and the grandfather of Lorenzo.

Thorobred History

Origin of the "Thorobred" nickname

Many people believe Kentucky State got its nickname of Thorobreds from the fact that the state of Kentucky is noted for its horses and the famed Kentucky Derby. But this is not true. Dr. Henry Cheaney, a retired professor at Kentucky State, says the name was coined back in the early 1930's by Henry Arthur Kean. Kean was the coach of the football, basketball and baseball teams back in those days and it was said the nickname came from one of his great football teams which included National Championship teams in 1934 and 1937. The story goes that he was talking to a spectator about one of those great football teams and said "these boys run and play like a bunch of THOROBREDS." That name was finally adopted as the official nickname for all Kentucky State Athletic teams.

Thorobreds 1997 Bowl Appearance was the 7th

Kentucky State's appearance in the Pioneer Bowl in December 1997 was the seventh bowl contest in which the University has participated.

The Breds played in the Orange Blossom Classic in 1935 when it beat Florida A&M 19-10. In 1928 A&M topped the Breds 9-7. In 1971, A&M beat the Breds 27-9 and in 1975, 40-13.

Other bowl appearances came in 1943 when the Breds beat Prairie View 19-13 in the Prairie View Bowl which was discontinued in 1962, and in 1948 when Kentucky State beat North Carolina A&T 23-13 in the Vulcan Bowl.

Kentucky State has won 11 National Championships

Kentucky State has had eleven National Championship teams in its athletic history. The Kentucky State basketball team, which won three straight NAIA Championships in 1970-72, leads the way. The 1971 track team won the NCAA College Division Championship, the 1964 cross country team won the NCAA College Division Championship, and the 1934 and 1937 football teams were National Champions. The 1981 women's basketball team won the NAIA National Championship.

Lucias Mitchell coached all three basketball championship teams; Dr. Ken Gibson was the track coach; Dr. William Exum the cross country mentor; Henry Arthur Kean the football coach; Ron Mitchell the women's basketball coach; and Ralph Pardue the golf coach won the National Minority College Golf Championship in 1998. Ron Braden, as golf coach, won the university's first national championship in the new millennium, winning the 2000 National Minority College Golf Championship.

Henry Arthur Kean

Henry Arthur Kean was appointed Head Coach and Athletics Director at Kentucky State in 1931. He became known as "Kentucky's molder of championship grid teams." He claimed that his team was given the nickname "Notre Dame" not only because a number of players made All-American on the gridiron but because he instilled in his players a confidence within themselves which lasted long after the gun had ended the game.

A native of Louisville and a graduate of Fisk University, where he had the distinction of being a four-letter man, Henry Arthur ranked as one of the most versatile athletes ever turned out by that school. He earned his graduate degree in Physical Education from Indiana University. He was the topic of sports conversation as far back as the decade of the 1920's, when he was a star in football, basketball, baseball and tennis.

Upon graduation, H.A. Kean taught Mathematics for ten years at Louisville's Central High School, where he also served as Coach. To further advance his coaching techniques, he took special courses under Knute Rockne and other famous coaches. With his excellence in that field, he earned an enviable record as a football and basketball official, being called hundreds of miles to officiate in some of the biggest college games in the country.

After Kean took the position at Kentucky State University, the Thorobreds established a record of having traveled more miles than any other college in history. They played in four major conferences and in all of the "Bowls". They dominated football for ten years. They were National Champions three times and Midwest Athletic Association Champions ten straight years.

Two of Kean's players, Joe (Tarzan) Kendall and George (Big Bertha) Edwards were selected on every All-American team during their respective years of service. It was concluded that his record was not based solely on Kean's coaching ability but due to some extent, to his ability as a leader of youth and maker of men.

Henry Arthur Kean left KSU in 1943 to accept a position as Coach at Tennessee State in Nashville where he served until his death in 1955.
